SCRIBBLE Scrubbie

Rod™ T-Rex

Rod lives to laugh it up! He's a big carnivore with the heart of an herbivore. Making friends is Rod's favorite pastime. He always makes a point of inviting new dino-dudes for a game of Leap the Lava or Dodge the Meteor. But Rod's boisterous good nature is often so bold that he can't help but scare the tar pits out of would-be playmates. His toothy, bellowing laugh often bowls over his new friends and leaves them wondering if they are his buddies or his breakfast?

Key Character Traits: fun-loving, aggressively friendly, loud

SCRIBBLE Scrubbie

Rory™ Triceratops

Rory is the ultimate go-with-the herd triceratops – always agreeable and wanting to please his many friends. He’s always up for a trip to the watering hole, or a dip in the hot springs – whatever his BDPs (Best Dino Pals) want to do is okay with him. But being so accommodating has its disadvantages, as Rory often finds himself in the middle of mini dino-disputes. Having to side with one of his best buds over another, Rory often finds himself trapped by these triangular, triceratopsian, tribulations!

Key Character Traits: accommodating, peacemaker, harmonious, non-confrontational

SCRIBBLE Scrubbie

Trish™ Pterodactyl

You might have to call out to Trish a few times before she takes her head out of the clouds. Often prone to flights of fancy, Trish loves to dream about the nature of the universe. Though the sky is her play space, she often wonders what's beyond. What's deep below the sea? Do volcanoes get heartburn? Though her musings are quite endearing to her less-philosophical friends, Trish's distracted thinking can be misinterpreted as being aloof or putting herself above it all.

Key Character traits: absent-minded, daydreamer, inquisitive

SCRIBBLE Scrubbie

Vinny™ Velociraptor

Vinny has the rhymes for prehistoric times. A natural poet, his speedy wordplay has earned him the nickname “Veloci-rapper”. He’s a thesaurus-dinosaurus, whipping up verses for dinos, places and things on the spot! Sometimes Vinny’s razor-sharp wit can get him into trouble though. Like when he drops a biting slam on friends and leaves them feeling shredded.

SCRIBBLE Scrubbie

Walker™ Parasaurolophus

Walker sees the crest on his head as a mark of his importance. As the town crier, Walker's distinctive headgear helps him command attention and communicate with the other animals near and far. And even though some may wish that he would pipe down, Walker happily remains loud and proud.

SCRIBBLE Scrubbie

Dolly™ Dolichorhynchop

Dolly flies through the water with the greatest of ease! With her big eyes, she can spot friends --and prey--on land and in the seas. Some make fun of her long nose, but Dolly knows it's one of her greatest assets. Sure she can spot a hot springs barbecue for miles, but she can also tell you what's on the menu!

SCRIBBLE Scrubbie

Randy™ Brachiosaurus

With his long neck you might wonder if Randy's long lost cousin is the giraffe! Randy does spend a lot of time with his tribe for family style meals. Of course, that means most of his day is spent with his head in the trees. That's just as well. There aren't many kitchen tables that can hold 880 pounds of food a day!

SCRIBBLE Scrubbie

Sid™ Stegosaurus

A prehistoric punk rocker, Sid appears as hardcore as they come. With those spikes on his tail, Sid may look vicious, but it's just an act. This gentle vegan loves to make a good show, but the plates on his back are more for keeping him cool than slamming critics who don't dig his band, the Mesozoic Mayhem!

SCRIBBLE Scrubbie

Finn™ Spinosaurus

Finn tries to keep emotions in check, which isn't easy with a fin that gives you away! Since hatching, his fin turned colors to match his mood. When cranky it glowed red, blue meant sad, green was happy. And when he had a crush on a little spino-girl, it took an ice age before the purple drained away!

SCRIBBLE Scrubbie

Tina™ T-Rex

For Tina the “T” in T-Rex stands for tidy! “I’m not a neat freak... just put everything back exactly where it belongs!” If she’s not cleaning up last night’s dinner bones, she’s untrampling the path where the longnecks tread. They complain but Tina’s friends are glad she cares about their prehistoric home!

74-7702

Back to Home

SCRIBBLE Scrubbie

Sledge™ Pterodactyl

Sledge is like a living dart—cutting through the air like a velociraptor claw through lunch! Always in competition with his fellow Pterodactyls, Sledge keeps pushing himself to more daring deeds. His stunts spark wonder, but his friends worry that his need for higher flights will take him too close to the sun.

74-7702

SCRIBBLE Scrubbie

Stevie™ Triceratops

Curiosity is what made Stevie take a stand. "If my bestie, Tina T-Rex, can walk on two legs why can't I?" Before she knew it, she was walking upright most of the time. Her four-legged friends wonder what's so special "up there". But they shrug it off because, on two legs or four, Stevie is always grounded.

SCRIBBLE Scrubbie

Dylan™ Dilophosaurus

Dylan once molded a bit of clay and made Stevie Triceratops think she'd grown a fourth horn. She tied a rock to Sledge the Pterodactyl's tail and the poor guy wondered why he couldn't get airborne all day. Dylan's pranks are meant to be fun, but tarring Tina's T-Rex arms to her body is just asking for a snappy reply!

74-7702

Back to Home

SCRIBBLE Scrubbie

Lock™ Stygmoloch

To say Lock is a bit hard-headed is an understatement! "What friends call being stubborn, I like to think of as determined!" When he has a problem to solve, nothing can block his path—literally! I mean, words won't move a boulder so having a rock-hard head and horns also comes in handy sometimes.

74-7702

SCRIBBLE Scrubbie

Kat™ Ankylosaurus

Kat is always apologizing. She's good but kinda like a woolly mammoth in a shell shop. Kat's club-like tail gets in the way, accidentally thumping a foot or knocking over a table. She's grateful when a predator breaks a tooth on her armored body, but even then, she can't help but mutter a quiet, "Sorry".

SCRIBBLE Scrubbie

Hank™ Seal

Hank's one of the most well-adapted creatures you'll ever meet. Comfortable on land or water, in cold or even VERY cold climates, this guy knows all the tricks and is no stranger to the spotlight. Often forced to sing for his supper, Hank had to learn to take care of himself and toot his own horn. Happily, being out in Arctic, Hank learned to fish upon a star.

SCRIBBLE Scrubbie®

Star™ Fox

Sleek and stylish, Star skates around the rink with grace. She's a natural on the ice but others sometimes howl and growl about her aloof nature. Though a fierce competitor on skates, Star actually prefers the cozy comfort of her den and a book about her cousins in warmer climes. What fox doesn't like to curl up with a furry "tale?"

SCRIBBLE Scrubbie

Anji™ Penguin

Anji is a determined fish-catcher. But her laser focus can lead her astray. That's how this South-Pole native found herself on foreign ice—doggedly chasing down a snack before discovering she was halfway around the world! Luckily her Arctic friends have given her a warm and, naturally chilly, welcome!

Key character trait: determined/gets lost in her tasks; innocent and naive

SCRIBBLE Scrubbie

Ned™ Polar Bear

Ned is soft-spoken—that is, when you can get him to talk at all. But hours of quiet observation has made this bashful bear a masterful mimic. On occasion he has his friends RotTL (Rolling on the Tundra Laughing) impersonating a killer whale, an arctic fox or his friend, Anji, a little wobbly after a fish feast!

Key character trait: bashful

SCRIBBLE Scrubbie

Toklo™ Walrus

Toklo is a serene navigator, peacefully in tune with his surroundings. A spontaneous soul, Toklo often worries his companions, plotting a course by the wind in his whiskers not a GPS. If he takes that wrong turn at Greenland, Toklo isn't worried. As he says, "Where I am is always where I'm supposed to be!"

Key character trait: spontaneous

Sydney™ Dolphin

Meet Sydney, the curious little dolphin that glides through the ocean with a purpose... that is, a purpose. She's most happy when she's being a little nosy—I mean, she is a bottle-nosed dolphin. She loves turning over shells, rocks, and shiny things she finds on the seafloor. Sydney can get in too deep sometimes. She's no stranger to a snip on the snout from a crabby crawler or two!

Toby™ Sea Turtle

Not a subterranean ninja, or a land-lubbin' slowpoke—Toby is a turtle born to ride with the tide! Just don't ask him to tell you exactly where he's going. "I go with the flow, bro!" is his credo. As soon as he was hatched he beat out dozens of brothers and sisters in an epic race to the sea. Since then, Toby leads a truly Zen existence, livin' in the moment and going wherever current events take him.

Walter™ Whale

When Walter was just a little squirt, his mother made sure he thrived. Every night she fed him fish and ships, and when he got the sniffles, she'd give him Vitamin Sea, and taught him to cover his spout when he sneezed! As he got older, between his size and his kindness, Walter became legendary, and he soon had an ocean full of fans following his pod-cast!

Shelly™ Shark

Tired of swimming in circles, Shelly the Shark decided to try some new hobbies. Computer programming was a breeze since Jaw-va was second nature to her. When she cooked, she made amazing peanut butter and jellyfish sandwiches. Shelly became a wiz at Go Fish and quickly became a card shark. Turned out, just like her cousin Hammerhead, Shelly nailed everything she tried!

SCRIBBLE Scrubbie

Ollie™ Octopus

An artist and a musician, Ollie's a true rock-topus! From an early age, his mother took him to sing at the choral reef, and when he'd go to sleep in his sea bed, he'd dream of playing with idol rock-topi band, Ink Floyd. Though now all rock stars have tattoos, Ollie got inked early, that's just how tenta-cool he is!

Coral™ Fish

Never koi, Coral is quick to give fish tips to her school friends! On her shell phone day and night, Coral happily spills the sea tea. She recommended the best orca-dontist to her friend, Donnie the Dolphin who needed braces. She's always there to console her best gill-friend, Goldie, when she's feeling blue. Even though some of Coral's facts are fishy, she always knows how to catch a wave of good vibes!

Marco™ Octopus

Tenacious, pugnacious and determined—that's Captain Marco! A spirited adventurer of the seven seas—and the eight legs—nothing will steer him from his charted course. Though Marco is celebrated for his fierce seafaring skills, his bossiness can leave his first mate, Polo, feeling like a second-class clown fish!

SCRIBBLE Scrubbie

Polo™ Pinecone Fish

As clown fishes go, Polo isn't very funny. But her bright and sunny nature nicely offsets Marco's curtness. Her optimism can sometimes annoy her captain and even lead them into precarious situations. "Note to self," muses Polo, "sharks are not playmates and waterfalls are not nature's roller coasters!"
